KENSINGTON GOLD MINE

Coeur Alaska is recruiting for an Underground Mine Planning Engineer for its Kensington Gold Mine, located 45 miles north of Juneau, Alaska. The Kensington ore body is a steeply dipping, complex network of flat lying shear hosted, gold bearing quartz veins. The mining methods are longhole stoping and drift and fill with paste backfill. We are seeking talented candidates who will work safely and productively while helping to achieve Coeur's goals and objectives for a world class underground gold mine.

EDUCATIONAL/TRAINING REQUIREMENTS:

This position requires a minimum of five years of progressive work experience in an underground mine operation. A Bachelor Degree in Mining Engineering is required.

RESPONSIBILITIES:

- Design development layouts and stope production drilling.
- Prepare the weekly production and development plans.
- Stope reconciliations
- Provide engineering technical support to mine operations as required.
- Track actual progress against planned production and development targets.
- Prepare stope proposals for communicating the mine plan to operations and technical staff.

TECHNICAL/EXPERIENCE REQUIREMENTS:

- Bachelors Degree in Mining Engineering
- Underground hard rock metal mine engineering experience, including mine design and scheduling in a production setting.
- Knowledge of Vulcan and EPS (or similar) mine planning software.
- Strong desire to advance technical skills and contribute to the ongoing effort to develop this newly commissioned underground mine.
